

Brand Guidelines

v1.0 · 2026

01 · THE PALETTE

Warmth grounded in trust.

A deliberately restrained palette. Deep blue does the heavy lifting for headlines and trust. Burnt orange is reserved for one purpose per surface — the moment the reader should feel warmth or urgency. Cream provides the room to breathe.

PRIMARY
Deep Blue

SUPPORTING Mid Blue

ACCENT
Burnt Orange

CANVAS
Cream
#F5EFE4

ORANGE SOFT · #E8A87C
Chart secondary · light accents

CREAM WARM · #EDE4D3
Card backgrounds · subtle bands

SLATE WARM · #5B5245
Body text · captions

THE 60 / 30 / 10 RULE

60% cream (canvas) · 30% deep blue (headlines & trust anchors) · 10% burnt orange (accents, CTAs, hero numbers). Never invert.

02 · TYPOGRAPHY

A serif with a humanist voice.

Two fonts. No exceptions. DM Serif Display carries every editorial headline. Manrope handles every UI, body, and utility surface. Together they read as sophisticated, warm, and modern — never corporate, never generic.

EDITORIAL HEADLINE

Elevate the everyday kitchen.

DM Serif Display · Regular & Italic
Use for hero headlines (60-96pt), section titles (32-44pt), and hero numbers. Italic variant used only for accent phrases.

UI & BODY

The right tool at the right moment.

Manrope · 300 / 400 / 500 / 600 / 700 / 800
Use for body copy (16-22pt), buttons (14-16pt bold), eyebrow labels (10-13pt bold, uppercase, tracked +0.28em), and all UI.

TYPE SCALE (SLIDE / PRINT)

Hero · DM Serif Display · 80-132pt · slide covers, hero moments

Headline · DM Serif Display · 40-88pt · slide titles, section openers

Sub-headline · DM Serif Display Italic · 24-36pt · taglines, editorial callouts

Eyebrow / label · Manrope 800 · 10-13pt uppercase +0.28em tracking · orange

Body · Manrope 500-700 · 16-22pt · supporting copy, lists, tables

Brand Guidelines

v1.0 · 2026

03 · BRAND VOICE

Confident, warm, never precious.

We sound like a smart friend who has tested every gadget so you don't have to. Not a corporate marketing team. Not a chef intimidating you with vocabulary. Not a wellness brand selling you a lifestyle.

01

VOICE PILLAR

Direct.

Short sentences. Active voice. No filler. Say what the product does, then get out of the way.

02

VOICE PILLAR

Grounded.

Real numbers over vibes. Every claim is testable — minutes saved, materials disclosed, warranty length stated.

03

VOICE PILLAR

Warm.

We're on the customer's side. Cooking is hard enough — we translate, not intimidate. Human, not clinical.

04 · TONE SPECTRUM

Same voice. Different rooms.

PRODUCT PAGE

Confident, factual.

"Stainless steel body. Bamboo handle. 12-month manufacturer warranty. Reclaims 8 minutes per prep."

ADS & SOCIAL

Playful, punchy.

"Your third broken spatula this year? Yeah. That's the problem. Meet the one that lasts."

NEWSLETTER

Personal, generous.

"Hi — Amy here. Last week I tested six garlic presses so you never have to. Here's the only one worth keeping."

SUPPORT

Human, decisive.

"That shouldn't have happened. Refunding you now — you'll see it in 3-5 days. Keep the item on us."

05 · LANGUAGE · DO & DON'T

DO

- Lead with the specific number — "35 minutes," not "faster"
- Say "curated," "vetted," "tested" — earned trust words
- Use "home cook," never "housewife" or "consumer"
- Contractions are fine — "we're," "you'll," "doesn't"
- Show the receipts — cite sources on statistics
- Sentence case in headlines. Only proper nouns capitalized.

DON'T

- Overpromise — no "revolutionary," "game-changing," "must-have"
- Manufactured scarcity — no "only 3 left!" fake urgency
- Foodie jargon — no "elevate your culinary journey"
- Emoji in headlines. Ever. Body sparingly.
- ALLCAPS shouting (except in tracked eyebrow labels)
- Passive voice — "mistakes were made" is not our voice